Mrs. Stewart Ill.

Mrs. Cora Wilson Stewart, founder of the "moonlight schools" in Rowan county, who has been making a lecture tour of Kentucky in the interest of education, is at the Jewish Hospital in Louisville suffering from a nervous breakdown, with which she was stricken Sunday morning at Paducah. She was removed to Louisville Tuesday, all engagements for other lectures in Western Kentucky being canceled. Her condition is not serious according to Dr. Anna Lawrence, the attending physician. Although the present illness of Mrs. Stewart caused her to cancel engagements at Fulton, Mayfield; Franklin, Madisonville, Hopkinsville and Guthrie, she hopes to be able to continue her work within a few weeks.

Weather For The Week.

Washington, March 22.—A gradual return this week to normal spring temperatures, with generally fair skies, was predicted by the weather bureau tonight for all parts of the country east of the Rocky mountains. "There is nothing to indicate marked storm activity over the country. A disturbance of moderate intensity will appear in the northwest Wednesday or Thursday, cross the middle west about Friday and the eastern states near the end of the week; this disturbance will be attended by local areas of precipitation and be followed by a change to cooler weather in the northern states."
